Supporting you when you need it most

You probably don't spend too much time thinking about the valuable protection cover you have in place. You take out your plan and then you put it out of your mind – it's one less thing to worry about! Well, that is until you need to make a claim. It's then that you will be glad of the protection plan you have in place.

In 2025, we paid €122.3 million in Life and Serious Illness claims, and €9.9 million in Income Protection claims.

Behind every claim is a person relying on us during one of the most challenging moments of their life. While the figures show the scale of claims we paid last year, it's the individual experiences and outcomes that matter most. Every claim is assessed with care by our specialist team to ensure each case receives a fair, timely and compassionate response.

By sharing our claims experience, we hope to give clients confidence in the value of their cover and demonstrate our ongoing commitment to transparency, support and continual improvement in all that we do.

Life Insurance

Life Insurance or Life Cover pays a lump sum to your family or other beneficiaries if you pass away. It is the simplest form of protection available, and it is usually taken out to provide for your family or to pay off your mortgage in the event of death.

The most common reasons for insurance claims related to loss of life in Ireland are heart attack, respiratory illness, stroke and cancer. In 2025 we paid out to over 800 families, that's about 15 death claims every week.

Leading causes of life insurance claims paid out in 2025

Cancer is the principle cause of death – it accounted for 36% of Zurich life claims in 2025. Cancer and heart-related deaths together accounted for ~50% of all life claims.

Age breakdown

The vast majority of claims were filed for people over 50. Yet sadly, some life claims were paid to the beneficiaries of people who passed away as young as their early twenties.

Serious Illness and Cancer Cover

Serious Illness Cover is a type of insurance policy that pays out a cash lump sum if you get one of the many serious illnesses covered by the plan. Cancer Cover is a specific type of Serious Illness insurance, which covers particular cancer diagnoses only.

A cash lump sum paid to you could help remove some of the financial and emotional stress associated with a serious illness – to enable you to take the time off work, to help pay for specialist treatment and/or even to help cover day-to-day household bills such as childcare.

At Zurich, we focus on the strength of our Serious Illness definitions, and our view is that this is the most important element of any Serious Illness contract. We've always focused on the 'Big Three' – Cancer, Heart and Stroke.

Illnesses in these three categories alone accounted for 89% of all our Serious Illness claims in 2025. At Zurich, Cancer accounts for 66% of all Serious Illness claims. However, for women, Cancer is the cause of 77% of Serious Illness claims of which over half related to Breast Cancer.

Income Protection

If you are unfortunate enough to fall ill or become injured and are unable to work during the term of your plan, you may be eligible to receive a monthly income until you are well enough to work again. Income Protection from Zurich also includes valuable additional benefits such as back-to-work services, a hospital cash benefit and essential activities benefits.

The core of our Income Protection proposition is that it gives you financial resilience, so that you can still pay off your mortgage, cover your household bills and take care of your family when you are unable to earn an income due to injury or illness.

Protecting your income is one of the most important steps in building financial security.

Your income underpins every part of your life – it pays for your home, your bills and the needs of your family. It’s also what enables you to save for the future and build towards a comfortable retirement.

When illness or injury interrupts that income, those plans can quickly come under pressure. That’s why, at Zurich, we believe income protection should sit at the heart of every financial plan. It gives clients the financial resilience to stay secure during difficult times and to focus on their recovery, knowing their essential income is protected.

Early intervention and back-to-work services

When you have Income Protection with Zurich and you get ill or injured, let us know as soon as you can. You may immediately be able to benefit from our early intervention service without having to wait until the end of the deferred period.

This service is provided through our partner Health Claims Bureau (HCB), experts in early intervention and employee health management with a 30-year track record in getting people back on their feet. Did you know that over 90% of all cases referred within 4 weeks of date first absent return to work with HCB case manager support¹?

When you notify us of a potential claim, we quickly assess whether our back-to-work services can support your wellbeing. These services are particularly effective when the underlying cause is due to mental health and musculo-skeletal conditions, which together make more than one-third of our claims².

If you are considered a candidate for these services, Zurich Life will refer to HCB to appoint a personal case manager. After an initial assessment, either in person or remotely, they will build a personalised plan, which may include physiotherapy and psychological support.

And even when you're back at work, we can keep supporting you. With our proportionate benefit we can top up some of your salary if you are unable to return full time and you're not earning as much as before.

Early intervention is one of the most effective ways we can support clients on their road to recovery.

When someone becomes ill or injured, engaging with our Early Intervention program early on can make a real difference.

Through our partnership with HCB, clients can access tailored support such as physiotherapy, psychological assistance or specialist case management — all designed to help them focus on their wellbeing and return to work when they are ready.

Many clients tell us they feel genuinely supported and reassured throughout the process, and seeing them regain confidence and rebuild their routine is one of the most rewarding parts of what we do.

The importance of disclosure

Although this doesn't happen very often, there are cases where we're unable to pay a claim. There are three main reasons for claims not being paid.

Non-disclosure at the time of application

This is when incorrect or incomplete information relating to factors such as health, lifestyle or occupation was provided when applying for the cover. Many cases of non-disclosure involve heavy alcohol abuse or drug use.

The claim does not meet the definitions

This is when the claim is filed for a condition that isn't specified in the Policy Document or did not meet the definition of the condition.

The claim does not meet the conditions

This is when the claim does not meet the conditions that were laid out in the Policy Document. For example, when a loss of life claim arises as a result of suicide, the policy has to have been in force for one year as suicide is not covered during the first year of the policy.

For more information, read our Client Guide.
If you have any questions during your application, please contact your Financial Adviser.

In 2025, we paid over €122.3 million in Life and Serious Illness claims. While we pay the vast majority of claims, there are rare occasions where a claim cannot be paid, often due to non-disclosure at application.

Understanding the importance of full and accurate disclosure at application stage is essential to ensuring claims can be paid when clients need us most. Each year, we pay the vast majority of life, serious illness and income protection claims, and our focus is always on supporting clients during difficult times.

Unfortunately, there are rare occasions where a claim cannot be paid, often because key medical or lifestyle information was not disclosed when the plan was taken out. Even unintentional omissions can impact the outcome of a claim. By being open and thorough from the very beginning, clients can be confident that their cover will work exactly as expected.

Our aim is to make the process as clear as possible and to help clients feel informed, protected and reassured at every stage.
